HOUSE

WASHINGTON D C March, 18 —The following officers were elected Adams Clerk, Thompson, Sergeant at Arms, Field, Door Keeper, Stewart, Post master, Rev W P Harrison, Chaplain

The clerk gave Hull democrat of Florida his seat and allowed the delegation to come in His ground, in both cases was that a governor's certificate and seal of the state gave the holders the prima facie right to seats As to the State of Kansas the clerk said he had to put on the roll the name of the person claiming to have been elected from the state at large, the state being only entitled to three members

Messrs Garnett and Blackburn conducted Mr Randall to the chair He made a brief address and then the oath of office was administered to the speaker by Mr Kelly, of Pa after which the oath to the members was administered by the speaker in groups of states

Mr McMahon sent to the clerk's desk and asked to have read a petition, signed by twenty three prominent citizens of Cincinnati against the right of Butterworth and Young, of Ohio, to occupy their seats A discussion arose as whether the petition should take the ordinary course or be referred at [illegible] time the record with out action The matter went over till tomorrow After drawing for seats the House adjourned

SENATE

Soon after the Senate was called to order a recess was taken and [illegible] reassembling a motion to adjourn prevailed

GENERAL NEWS.

The Breach of Promise Case

WASHINGTON, March 18 The Oliver Cameron case was continued to day Mr Oliver testified that relying on the promise of Cameron to marry her, she permitted him to have improper privileges with her at his rooms in this city The witness said that in the winter Cameron sent for her to come to his parlors at the Congressional Hotel When she entered he locked the door and kept her in the room till night Cameron said she was to marry him, and she yielded to his solicitations Upon cross examination the witness said she lived with Thomas Marshall Oliver as his wife, had two children by him though he had a wife living He subsequently procured a divorce from his wife, and the judge told her that it divorced her also After the divorce Oliver left, and she never saw him again For several years she was looked upon as Oliver's wife. The marriage was not lawful because he had a wife living when he married the witness, who was young at the time, and did not know anything about the former marriage She had written Oliver at several places lately, but did not know he was living At this point Mr Oliver entered the court room, and the witness said; "That is Mr. Oliver He has changed somewhat, but that is him."

The following letter was then shown to her and she admitted the handwriting as hers The envelope bore stamp Oct 31st, 1878

"Hon Simon Cameron Late as it is I will pray to God to have you sent to England if you will marry me, or provide for me as you would for a wife, as you have promised. You have but a short time to let me know and this mission is yours It will be granted to me, because I pray for it My prayers God always answers Let me know Justice to me and fortune is yours Respectfully, MARY.

After reading it she laughingly said, "Well, General Butler you can't blame me for wanting to stir the old man up and get him to marry me" She said she had not shown the following letter to anybody or recollected receiving it

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1875

"MY DEAR MRS OLIVER,—I hope you will be my wife before very long It is better you should have a home than remain without protection Hereafter you will be informed of it Decline acquaintances of all people The small sum will pay your expenses I shall probably be in Washington in twelve or fourteen days and hope you may continue to avoid all bad people Yours, S CAMERON

In a letter to Cameron Mr Oliver says "I will accept $1,000 with the $1,000 I have already received from you and when you give me the $4,000 in my hand, then and there forever, all claims of mine against you cease In another letter she says she will take $1,000 in addition to what has been received, and $75 per month

Senator Blaine wishes he had not voted for the anti Chinese bill. The cartoons of Nast are really terrible.

One family will be represented with three generations in the coming Kentucky state democratic convention.

Senator Blaine called Ex Senator Matthews crushing reply to Thurman the most powerful speech he ever listened to.

The Times in an article on the railway situation rather congratulates the state on the fact that the entire state is now at the mercy of the northern pool and the A T & S F.

The argument in the U S Supreme Court on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Co's motion to dismiss the appeals was closed yesterday. A decision may be expected on Monday next.

It seems that Vice President Wheeler controls the appointment of all the senate officers except the secretary and sergeant at arms. He has the power under a rule adopted by the democratic senate in 1860.

The new tramp law of Connecticut provides that a tramp may be sent to the state's prison for two years if he enters a dwelling house without permission or kindles a fire on the highway or land. This provision was mainly supported by the country members.

The daily greenback organ at Augusta, Me, has been compelled to stop. This is only one of the many evidences of the weakening of the greenback party in Maine. It is now generally believed that Mr Blaine's course toward the administration has done not a little to dishearten and disunite republicans.

The Charleston News and Courier very truly says: The country is not quite sure whether the democratic party is a lamb or a tiger, and if success in 1880 is worth having, to crown the work of decentralization the democrats must keep themselves down and show by their prudence and moderation that they realize the responsibility now resting upon them. This should be cut out of the News by every democratic member of congress and pasted in his hat.

Secretary Sherman after careful estimates thinks the appropriations provided for will exceed the revenue by at least $25 000 00. Could better proof of the incompetency of congress be furnished? Patterson achieved a great reputation by voting for the pension and harbor and river bill which needlessly takes $33 000 000 out of the treasury. If the democrats would repeal both of these appropriations they would deserve great credit.

Section 43 of the revised statutes reads as follows: No member or delegate is entitled to any allowance for newspapers. Yet at the extra session the following appropriation was made: For newspapers and stationery for members of the House of Representatives for the first session of the Forty fifth Congress, $3 675. This speaks well for a party that is to reform. The 45th congress needs investigation as much as the navy department under Robeson.

In the senior class at Columbia there are twenty six republicans, ten democrats and [illegible] greenbacker. Of this number twenty three are protectionists and six free traders. This shows rather a retrograde movement in our colleges on the tariff question. For the last ten years most college graduates have been free traders. The eminent teachers of political economy in this country are nearly all free traders. Hence it is almost a fair conclusion to infirm that Columbia is weak in this department of instruction.

The New York World says: We are at a loss to see how any man who believes that the honor and the interests of the United States will be imperilled by putting the House of Representatives under the control of a speaker taken from a section to which two thirds of the Democratic majority in that House belong can conscientiously array himself in the ranks of the Democratic majority at all. We are inclined to think the World correct, but then the question recurs whether it is best to put into power a party which is to be ruled entirely by the south.

Evidently a woman may be considered fitted for public life judging from what the Atlanta Constitution says of Mrs Felton, wife of the independent member of congress. It says: Everybody who knows anything about the politics of the seventh district is aware that Mrs Felton is the brains of the movement. It was her energy that organized the independent and her strategy that outwitted the democrats, and to her and her alone is due the success of Dr Felton. Hers was the master spirit that gave strength and life and vigor to the campaign; hers was the force that infused vitality into every detail of the canvass.

It is said the president will agree to the political amendments to the appropriation bills which provide that the army shall not be at the polls and abolishes the juror's test oath, but that he will oppose the repeal of the act of congress providing United States supervisors of election. In this respect he will receive the support of the most conservative part of the country. The law was called into existence by the false registration of 60 000 voters in New York in 1868, and by the intimidation in the south. As long as congressmen and presidents are elected by our present system, the national government should have some control at least of our elections that fraud and intimidation may not be too prevalent. This effort for repeal looks as though the democracy was preparing to carry the country at all hazards in 1880 and for this reason their action should be opposed.

The committee that have examined the charges against Rev Dr Talmage have reported in favor of a trial. In a very temperate and just criticism on his methods of preaching the committee enumerated the following mistakes which will be generally recognized as such.

First Going to places of evil resort not to rescue the fallen but rather for the purpose of unveiling before excited multitudes what many of them are only too eager to see.

Second Attempting to cure vice in the vicious and prevent it in the virtuous by depicting it in its dark and loathsome haunts. To unmask such haunts before large audiences even though localities and names are carefully withheld is to imperil the purity of many with a slight probability of saving a few. Men learn their sinfulness and ruin more in the light of Emmanuel's glory than in the darkness of the pit.

Third As "faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God," a series of sermons made up chiefly of vivid description of human wickedness in its manifold forms is not promotive either of the salvation of the lost or of the edification of the body of Christ.

Among the most encouraging facts to the northwest is the rapidly increasing size of the market for its produce. The following comparisons of exports give some idea of the increase during last year:

	1877	1878
Horned Cattle	[illegible]	7 [illegible]
Wheat	67 [illegible]	105,574 557
Wheat Flour	21 337 302	27 559,931
Bacon and Ham	43 914,084	56,827,455
Lard	[illegible]	[illegible]

In the above few items the increase in exportation in 1878 over 1877 is nearly $85 000 000. Most all of these products were from the north west. This also explodes the oft repeated protection fallacy that free trade would ruin American labor by bringing it into competition with the pauper labor in Europe. If any people are laborers certainly it is the agricultural class. Yet in Minnesota our farmers can compete with the French peasantry in Paris with their produce. The simple fact is that our country has immense advantages in the production of certain things over Europe, and this enables us to pay our labor better. The laborers on the farm and plantation need no protection, and it is a serious question whether it is their duty to support mechanics in unprofitable manufactures by paying from twenty five to fifty per cent more for all manufactured articles than they would cost if purchased of a foreign nation.

The News is finally compelled to make this explanation which shows how lamentably weak its position is: "Mr. Loveland's attitude before the legislature was that of a railroad manager not a politician. Mr Buttler went before the committee as a lawyer not a democrat, and Mr Otero as the representative of the Santa Fe. The republican majority, however was elected to oppose monopoly. The record stands republicans in favor of monopoly and democrats opposed it." The News is disingenuous about this. The bill was a monopoly bill for the benefit of a bankrupt corporation. The railroad committee said "to prevent injury to the people does not seem to be the object of the bill; this is not in the opinion of your committee, the primary object or purpose of the bill; indeed it does not seem to be conceived in such a spirit, but, rather seems to be designated to invoke legislative aid in protecting one or more railroads from the rivalry or competition of others."

This report was generally considered just. The sooner the News drops the railroad bill the better, for it was conceived in the interest of a corporation and presented by its attorneys and also was supported by monopolists if by any. The News can do better to take up the fraudulent amendment to senate bill No 6?

A GOOD MAXIM

Lost or mislaid—the Sherman movement. The finder will please return it to the Cincinnati Commercial office.—St Louis Globe Democrat

It may interest the G D to hear that the friends of Secretary Sherman think it would be unwise to push him furiously for a time. In these great matters it is prudent to mind the farmer's maxim, never to sweat the horses before breakfast. The merit of this observation is largely in the application of it.—Cincinnati Commercial

Lucky Recoveries of Money

My friend was paymaster of a large rail road company and one day he went out with $30 000 to pay the men The money was wrapped up in an old newspaper and he carried it under his arm He stopped at a way side hostelry for dinner and left the money on a chair when he went out He had not gone many miles from the place when he missed it He flew back and asked the woman if she seen a parcel There s a bit of newspaper on the chair beyond said she which it proved it to be and my friend returned a happier and a wiser man

A man I know lost a roll of bills amounting to $10 000 They also were tied up in a newspaper He told a friend ... the two talked over the ... and the probability of finding the money The friend made him tell all the ground he had been over since he had the money The last place he was at was the postoffice The night was wet overhead and slushy under foot They stopped at the postoffice and ... the place where the man ... been found two or three torn bits of newspaper It was the same They looked further and found the lost treas ure It had been kicked in turn by every one who came into the office and when found was all untied and completely soak ed in slush. They seized it eagerly and returned to their Hotel where they spent several hours in cleaning it It was all there and at last they got it dried The grateful man took his friend out and bought him the handsomest gold watch chain he could find —Correspondence Bos ton Saturday Gazette

His Orders

At the expense of Capt Lloyd of the Eighteenth United States Infantry It was during the memorable Ellenton disturb ance in South Carolina that the gentleman in question was ordered by Gen Ruger to proceed to the scene of the difficulty and as far as was possible to protect the unfor tunate ne roe who were threatened with massacre and to prevent further blood shed The captain who had been all his life a soldier and who always obeys his instructions to the letter at once placed himself at the head of his command and was on en route for Ellenton He ar rived at the now famous massacre bridge just before nightfall As he approached it with the United States flag flying drums beating and the deep red of the Southern sun et gilding the polished bayonets of his men the negroes who had huddled in the swamp half famished and almost hope less hiding from the white league rifle clubs came crowding about him

We s saved they cried De Union Army am de Massa Grant s gemmen hab come De good hebben hab sent you —de angel hab sent you —de good Lord Himself hab sent you To all of which the bewildered but well drilled Lloyd only replied No gentlemen it s a mistake I got my orders from Gen Ruger —N Y Times

We would say and it is the least and the most that we can say that Miss Fanny Price s rendition of the character of Camille Saturday night was indifferent Her posi tions are not good in her passion scenes when she should swell out like a mountain she sinks in like a gulch That ain t right in this country She ought to know the audience here is not the fine spun crowd that she would encounter back east and when she had worked their feelings up to a scalping hurrah she ought not to give up to her lover She presented only fighting front when her lover s back was turned This won t do for a frontier audience, and Miss Price will probably thank us for this suggestion We make it for her benefit The character of Camille is way up when the right conception of it is presen ted by the actress Clara Morris would make a mule kick its driver—if the said animal was allowed to look upon her but Fanny Price excites none of the human passions by her representation Dra matic Critic of Deadwood (Dakota) Times.

Dr. S. Davis while hunting on the Fountain south of town, on Monday last, killed one of the largest hawks we have ever seen. It measured fifty-two inches from tip to tip.

Parties at Greenland, a station on the D. & R. G. R'y, have formed a company for the purpose of sinking a 100-foot shaft in that neighborhood, mineral having been discovered which bore good indications.

Attached to the south-bound train yesterday was a newly painted coach which attracted considerable attention. It has been painted a bright yellow or lemon color, very handsome. We understand that all of the passenger coaches on this road will ere long be of the same color.

Our esteemed and invariably courteous contemporary, the Chieftain, greatly overestimates the influence of the GAZETTE. The mere fact that it published an opinion of a miner, which was adverse to Silver Cliff, will not ruin that flourishing camp. We beg leave to assure the Chieftain that its fears are groundless.

The following order has just been issued from the office of the Atchison road:

TOPEKA, Kansas, March 11, 1879.

GENERAL ORDER, No 4. Mr. Thomas J. Anderson is hereby appointed General Agent of this Company, with headquarters at Denver, Colorado. He will have especial charge of the passenger business of this company in Colorado and the territory west and south of that state, and of the freight business in Colorado and territory north and west of Pueblo and Canon City.

WM. B. STRONG.

Vice President and General Manager.

Congregational Church.

All those who are disposed to give aid by a few hours' labor to the church are requested to meet on the ground for the new church building on Bijou street between Tejon and Nevada avenue Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, the 20th instant, for the purpose of helping to excavate a small cellar. Those who are willing so to work will please bring shovel and pickaxe. Refreshments will be provided. Ladies are respectfully invited to aid and cheer by their presence.

Respectfully, COMMITTEE.

Freighting Notes.

Grant's outfit, consisting of eight-sixes, came in Saturday, and started yesterday afternoon for Leadville.

At least 500,000 pounds of freight have been forwarded to Leadville from this city during the past three days.

The demand for teams is still great.

Ranchmen who have gone to freighting are making from $8 to $10 per day with single teams.

Streeter's outfit, consisting of ten eights, came in Monday. They were loading yesterday with coke and merchandise, and will probably pull out to day.

Most of the outfits come back empty. In this way only twelve days are consumed in making the round trip. This is considered a saving.

The roads between this city and Leadville are in good condition.

Still the freight continues to come.

As high as six cents per pound has been paid for freighting goods to Leadville.

A ranchman started out yesterday for Leadville, with a single team of mules, and carrying 2,000 pounds of freight, the rate on which was five cents per pound. Putting the entire expense of the trip at $25, he will clear in twelve days' time $75.

A Good Thing.

In these days of clap-trap and bogus inventions it is a pleasure to find something which has real merit and is within the reach of everyone. We wish to call the attention of our readers to a novelty in writing pens now being introduced in our city by the state agent, and which is destined to take the lead in that line. It is called the "Mackinnon Pen," and combines in itself the three-fold purpose of pen, inkstand and pencil. It is of the same shape and size as a lead pencil, has a round conical point made of pure gold and irridium, thereby being non-corrosive and as hard as a diamond. Enough ink is placed in the holder to serve for 24 hours continuous rapid writing, or as much as an ordinary business man would do in ten days. The pen is perfectly clean, will not blot or splutter, and where rapid continuous writing is required it will be invaluable. This pen has been sold extensively throughout the country and has proved itself what has long been needed, a practical, durable fountain pen. The convenience of having a pen one does not need to dip in ink and which answers all the purposes of a pencil, will commend it to our professional and business men as a useful invention. The manufacturer's guarantee for three years accompanies each pen, and we commend it to the favorable attention of our citizens as an article of merit and much superior to anything of the kind heretofore brought to our attention. The agent will call upon our citizens and we bespeak for him a ready sale, as he has an article of merit and usefulness.

Southern Colorado Cattle Men in Council.

During the last three years there has been a decided waking up among the intelligent cattle men south of the Divide which to-day took shape in the formation of a permanent Southern Colorado cattle growers' association based on representation from county, district and local organizations. The name adopted has been used for three years past by a local organization which has managed its interests so prudently, efficiently and successfully that the President, Dr. J. McCaskill, and Secretary D. B. Berry were chosen by acclamation to similar positions in the present association.

The passage of the round up and inspection act by the last legislature takes much of the active work out of the hands of the local organizations and makes official, the work of detecting thieves, inspecting cattle, hides and general protection, but the experience of the past five years has shown so strongly the advantage of class organization that still more attention will be paid to making them compact, efficient and beneficial.

The meeting was called by the Southern Colorado Cattle Growers' Association and in addition to the members of the original association ten local organizations were represented. After some preliminary remarks, a brief address by the president the subject of permanent organization was discussed at considerable length, and on motion, a committee was elected to prepare a plan of permanent organization to report at 9 o'clock on the succeeding day.

The meeting was called to order at the hour appointed and the committee reported a constitution which was unanimously adopted and the following officers elected: President, Dr. John McCaskill; Vice President, John W. Prowers; Second Vice President, George Myers; Secretary, D. B. Berry; Treasurer, Jasper N. Beatty; Board of Auditors, Frank G. Bloom, James A. McCandlass, H. S. Holly; Board of Assessment, F. J. Spencer, J. W. Replogan, A. J. Lamb, C. J. Hobson, Thos. B. Price.

After the election of officers, a general discussion of matters of interest to cattle owners was had which occupied the attention of the association until the hour of adjournment. The feeling of those present was most excellent and every indication pointed to great success in the future for the objects of the association. W. H.

Madame Camilla Urso.

"Camilla Urso" has long been a name to conjure with. The lovers of music acknowledged the potency of that name by extending to the famous artist an enthusiastic greeting at her concert last evening in Court House Hall, indeed the audience room was not large enough to accommodate all who applied for admission, and many of the tardy comers who had not taken the precaution to secure seats in advance were compelled to forego the pleasure they had anticipated. The programme was one of such superior interest and excellence that we can not refrain from presenting it:

PROGRAMME.

1 Trio—from the Opera "Maria di Rohan." Donizetti.
Miss Sargent, Mr. Tower and Mr. Rudolphsen.

2 Piano Solo—"Fantaisie on Rigoletto," Liszt.
Mr. Benno Scherek.

3 Song—"Lo! here the Gentle Lark." Bishop.
Miss Jennie Sargent.

4 Violin Solo—"The Devil's Sonata." Tartini.
Madame Camilla Urso.

5 Duo for Tenor and Baritone. "The Muleteers, Masini.
Messrs Tower and Rudolphsen.

6 Andante and variations—from "Sonata No 9," for Violin and Piano, Mozart.
Madame Camilla Urso and Mr. Scherek.

7 Duet—from the Opera of "Crispino e la Comare," Ricci.
Miss Sargent and Mr. Rudolphsen,

8 English Song—"My Star," Cowper.
Mr. W. C. Tower,

9 Violin Solo—"Di tanti palpiti," Paganini.
Madame Camilla Urso.

10 Aria—"The Roamer," from the Opera" Son and Stranger Mendelssohn
J. F. Rudolphsen.

11 Ballad—"It was a Dream," Cowen.
Miss Jennie Sargent.

12 Laughing Trio—"Vada si, via di qua," "Don't, oh! don't make me laugh," Martini.
Miss Sargent, Mr. Tower and Mr. Rudolphsen.

It has so long been the province and privilege of men to monopolize the violin as a medium of musical expression, that there is still a lingering sense of something outre when one looks upon a woman with that most expressive of all instruments in her hands. But when Madame Urso draws the bow, and the round, firm tone answers to her touch, all sense of appropriateness vanishes. The violin is hers by the primeval right—the right of conquest. With that suppleness of fingering, that sleight of hand which can never cease to be a marvel, the artist threads the most intricate labyrinth of variations, and produces such smoothness and continuality of tone that one is fain to remember the old descriptive lines and compare the effect to the calm, effortless soaring of the bird:

"When swift Camilla scours the plain,
Flies o'er the [illegible] corn and skims along the main."

It is difficult, upon leaving such a presence, to talk critically of music or of methods. The personality of the performance comes between the critic and his duty, and after all, what is the recompense of one who, viewing music as an "entity in itself," discusses it as such, when the people generally do not care about such distinctions, but prefer to view music through the sensuous veil of feeling? Indeed, the personality of the musician is no small integer in the sum of his power. Wilhelmj is conceded to be as great an artist as Paganini, but tradition tells us of listeners wrought to a frenzy of emotion by the witchery of Paganini's bow, while calm admiration and intellectual assent to the player's matchless skill is the meed of Wilhelmj. Madame Urso not only possesses the technical skill of the one, but also the magic power of the other.

The Devil's Sonata, by Tartini, the fancifully illustrated legend of which has been made so familiar to all by the playbills upon the dead-walls and boardings about town, was listened to with the profoundest attention. This phenomenal composition (for the term phenomenal may be employed if certain others may not), was very naturally considered the most attractive number of the programme. Madame Urso's rendering of it last night was one eminently calculated to make it popular. This sonata was the story of a dream, a wierd and uncanny dream, a dream of an infernal visitor and the diablere of his music. It belongs to a class of picturesque and descriptive compositions, which when their legends are fully known, hold the imagination through the force of recognized associations. This much may be said of The Devil's Sonata: It is fiction and has all the charm of fiction, even though it lacks the dignity of truth.

It is almost impossible within the narrow limits of this review to do justice to the excellence of last night's entertainment a word of earnest commendation to all the participants must suffice.

Miss Jennie Sargent is not only a singer, possessing a voice of wonderful sweetness and power, but she is also a charming young lady, whose attractions were at once recognized by her hearers, and whose singing was received with prolonged applause and persistent recalls.

The gentlemen of the company deserve the highest praise. Mr. W. C. Tower possesses a tenor voice of extraordinary compass thoroughly cultivated and capable of expressing every shade of emotion.

Mr. J. F. Rudolphsen, the baritone, is an accomplished artist, and it would be difficult to find a more efficient or satisfactory singer upon the modern stage. In addition to his delightful voice he possesses fine histrionic power and excels in the delineation of the humorous.

Herr Benno Scherek added much to the enjoyment of the evening by his rendering of the piano solo and his careful and accurate accompaniment.

In conclusion it is but justice to the company to thank them for their kindness in responding to the frequent recalls, in fact the bill was just doubled by this courtesy. Madame Urso was especially complaisant and being re-demanded at the conclusion of di tanti palpiti, responded with "The Old Folks at Home," rendering it with such pathos and tender feeling that she was once more compelled to respond by the tumult of applause. The entertainment was one of unsurpassed excellence and will long be remembered as a musical event by all who heard it.

Leadville News.

From the Reveille we clip the following:

Some enterprising Yankee has opened a lunch house on wheels. He pays no rent.

Another stage line is about being started to Ten Mile.

Bad whiskey causes more deaths in this city than pneumonia.

Work has been commenced on the Leadville and Greene river toll road.

The Georgetown wagon road is reported to be completed up to the top of the range.

Some parties are agitating the question of starting a stock exchange in this city with the view of aiding the speedy development of promising mining property.

Agents of some valuable mining properties in this locality are reported to be meeting with much success in their efforts towards negotiations in eastern cities.

It would be well if "Mollie May, 555" were removed from the transom over the door of the courthouse, and a blindfolded "Justice" with light garments substituted.

The Denver and Rio Grande company is discussing the feasibility of placing a Leadville train on their road to leave Denver about midnight, to make immediate connections with the stages for the carbonate districts; no decision has yet been reached, however.

From the Eclipse.

The expense of telegraphing last month between Denver and Leadville was $3,000. It is claimed that a line of telephone communication would be just as valuable and efficient, while the expense of using it would be merely nominal.

Edward Murray has just come in from Carbonateville and has brought us some specimens of ore from his mine at that place. A shaft has been sunk 13 feet and a drift run of 12 feet. The ore is about seven feet wide and has every appearance of being quite as valuable as specimens of Robinson's Wheel of Fortune mine, from which it is distant about 1,500 feet. From the amount of exploration made it seems that Mr. Murray has an assured fortune in the new camp.

Assistant Postmaster Phelps and four of the clerks worked all of last night distributing the immense accumulation of mail and to-day everybody will get something.

Geo. B. Robinson, R. T. Taylor, T. S. Wells and others are mentioned in connection with the mayoralty of Leadville.

The water works are expected to turn loose this afternoon.

[illegible]

Yesterday morning Mr. W. W. Prugh tendered his resignation as local freight agent of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company a position he has filled with credit to himself and satisfaction to the business community for some years. Mr. Prugh's sudden withdrawal from the Rio Grande is not without its meaning. His popularity among the people of this city rendered him a valuable adjunct to the road in Denver, but this qualification seemed to be regarded with disfavor by the new managers of the line. His resignation is only another chapter of the management of the Santa Fe which displaced Hastings for Anderson and compelled the resignation of Ellison, at Colorado Springs, to make room for a Santa Fe man. Ellison was regarded as one of the most efficient officers along the line, and was very popular at his station. Within the past few weeks the News has been compelled to note the abdication of Col. D. C. Dodge, S. M. Hastings, Ellison, and now Prugh, who prefers a resignation to a discharge. It is said that there are rumors that W. W. Borst is to retire also, but as he is a very warm Santa Fe man and a great friend of Thos. J. Anderson's, the rumor is probably without foundation. General Manager Strong created quite a revolution in Rio Grande circles while he was here, and is now on his way south, looking up whom he may devour. Major Anderson, the prospective manager of the Rio Grande division at this end of the line, assumed control of his office yesterday. He enjoys a wide acquaintance in this city, and is very popular among his friends.—News.
